Sen. Wiley is Renamed

Senator, 72, Wins Close Race In Wisconsin

By United Press
Sen. Alexander Wiley won Republican renomination for the U. S. Senate early today when his younger opponent conceded in a down-to-the-wire battle.

Meanwhile, the outcome was still in doubt in another close senatorial contest in Colorado.

Rep. Glenn Davis, 41, conceded to Wiley shortly after the veteran GOP senator pulled to a lead of some 10,000 votes in the spotlighted Wisconsin GOP battle for the senatorial nomination. It was the largest margin Wiley had enjoyed during the ballot counting.

Legion Caravan Here Thursday

On State-Wide Membership Tour, School for Officers

The American Legion Caravan, including national, state, division and district officers, will be in Harrisburg Thursday.

The caravan is making a state-wide tour and arrived in the 24th District today, with an all-day meeting scheduled for Carmi.

Purpose of the caravan is to spark the 1957 membership drive and to conduct a school of instruction for commanders, adjutants and service officers. The membership drive will be carried on during the day and the school of instruction starts at 7:30 p. m.

In Harrisburg the school will be held at the American Legion home of George Hart Post 167 with all Legion posts in the area invited to have representatives for the instruction.

The caravan is headed by Anthony (Tony) Badamo of Quincy, Department of Illinois Senior Vice Commander, and Harry Jensen, Chicago National field representative.

Organization Officers Chester F. Newby of Mill Shoals, Edward S. Akin of Mason City and William F. Neff of Chicago representing the Fifth, Second and First Divisions respectively, are making the tour of the state.

While in this area the caravan will be joined by 24th district officers including Harlan Black of Fairfield, district commander; John Flannigan of Springfield, senior vice commander; Bob Hull, Harrisburg, junior vice commander, and Merle Dailey, commander of George Hart post.

At 1:15 p. m. tomorrow the group will appear on a broadcast over WEBQ and at 6 p. m. will have dinner at Nina's Kitchen.

The school of instruction is slated to start promptly at 7:30 p. m. it was announced.

Lengthy Session Held by Board Of Supervisors

Salary Claims of County Clerk Office Employees Approved

The Saline County Board of Supervisors met yesterday in a regular September meeting and during the course of a long session the following were some of the happenings:

1. The board took up payment of salaries of help in the county clerk's office, as has been a point of discussion the past two or three months, and after lengthy deliberation voted to pay the September claims as read to the board, including pay for the help.

2. County Judge Trafton Dennis appeared and said a spot investigation of the oil and gas assessment books turned in to the county treasurer's office, indicated the county was not getting all the tax money to which it was entitled from the source.

3. The board of review asked for another extension of time past Oct. 7, and a member, Tom Maxwell of Eldorado, pointed out that although the board in August voted to ask the state department of revenue for a 30-day extension from Sept. 7 to Oct. 7, a check revealed the county clerk's office had never made the request as was required.

4. The board tabled until next month action on the annual budget and appropriation ordinances and the levy of the Egyptian Health department after Aubrey Giles of Eldorado opposed passage at this time, declaring "we may be heading in the wrong direction" by appropriating the rate asked when there is a $44,000 surplus. Others pointed out it is the intent to absorb $23,000 of this surplus this year.

5. Approved was a list of 900 names selected by the supervisors. From this list, petit jurors will be drawn next year for Saline county circuit court and Harrisburg and Eldorado city courts.

6. Funds were transferred to the following accounts either in the red or nearing exhaustion: $1,000 to the circuit clerk's supply account; $814.75 to the board of review account; $200 to the Poor Farm committee account; $2,000 to the sheriff's prisoner dieting account; $600 to the treasurer for tax collector's books; and $800 to the county superintendent of schools' supply account. The money came from $5,000 in the circuit clerk's bookbinding fund after the binding job was put off and from

Ball Points Replace Rusty, Scratchy Pens At the Post Office

Those rusty old scratch pens on the desks in the lobby of the Harrisburg post office which had the points all bent and leaked ink (and which wouldn't write when they were brand new) are there no longer.

They have been replaced with ball point pens. The new pens are installed on the desks in the lobby for public use, inaugurated by the Post Office department a short time ago. The pens, which are dark green and hold considerably more ink than the average pen, are fastened to the desks.

Postmaster A. M. Hetherington emphasized the fact that the pens have written on them "property of the post office department."

Boy, 7, Fatally Shoots Father, Admits Brothers' Plan to Ambush Mother

NORWALK, Calif. (AP)—A 7-year-old boy admitted early today he was the trigger man in a conspiracy with his two brothers to kill their sleeping father and set up an ambush for their mother, sheriff's deputies reported.

The father, steelworker Thomas W. Parker, 31, was shot in the head with a .22-caliber rifle Tuesday afternoon as he napped.

Deputies said that Parker's sons—Tommy, 10, Bobby, 9, and Richard, 7—freely admitted the plot and finally the youngest boy confessed that he alone shot Parker. They said the reprisal was planned because they were disciplined.

Richard told deputies he stole into his father's room and pulled the trigger after Tommy had loaded

Eisenhower Sees No Chance of Ending Draft Soon

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower, differing with Adlai E. Stevenson, sees no chance of ending the draft "in the immediate future."

Mr. Eisenhower told his news conference Tuesday that he would not use the words "foreseeable" future in answering the question of whether the draft could be ended. But, he said that "in the immediate future . . . I see no chance of ending the draft and carrying out the responsibilities for the security of this country."

Stevenson said last week that "we can now anticipate the possibility that within the foreseeable future we can maintain the military forces we need without the draft."

Western Union Gets Increase

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Federal Communications Commission today authorized Western Union to increase its domestic press rate, and its rates on both general and press messages and money orders to Canada and Mexico.

The company estimated the boosts will bring in $26,000 in additional revenue each year, allowing for some loss of business due to the higher rates.

An 8.2 per cent increase in interstate press messages within the United States will take effect Friday. The hike is expected to produce about $196,000 per year.

The new hikes supplement a boost in general domestic and foreign telegraph rates which took effect Aug. 26. These amount to approximately $9,600,000 per year.

Report China Returns Bodies

LONDON (AP)—The Communist radio reported today Red China has surrendered the bodies of two Americans—presumably victims of last month's Communist attack on a U. S. Navy plane off the China coast.

A Peiping broadcast said the bodies of William F. Huskins and Jack A. Curtis, "U. S. military personnel," were handed over to British officials in the Red capital.

"The foreign affairs office of the Shanghai Municipal People's Council today handed over the bodies of two U. S. military personnel and their belongings to an official of the office of the British charge d'affaires for transference to the United States," the broadcast said.

"The two bodies were found by organizations or Chekiang (province), on the beaches of two islands of the Chusan archipelago, on Aug. 31 and Sept. 4."

Raymond Holland, 66, of Eldorado Dies; Rites Friday

Raymond (Buck) Holland, 66, died at 12 noon yesterday in the Pearce hospital in Eldorado where he had been a patient for the past four days. He had been in failing health for the past two years but death was unexpected.

Mr. Holland was a retired miner, last working at O'Gara No. 10 mine.

He is survived by the following: two daughters, Mrs. Louise Hine, Carrier Mills, Mrs. Lena McKinis, Durand, Mich.; four grandsons; one brother, Otto Holland, Norris City, and four sisters, Mrs. Ethel Sanders, Cottonwood, Mrs. Elsie Carney, Cottonwood, Mrs. Alice Kirk, Alton, and Mrs. Maria York of Mt. Vernon, Ind. A son, Hayward, preceded him in death.

The body lies in state at the Bean and Tanner funeral home in Eldorado where services will be held Friday at 2 p. m. Elder T. Leo Dodd will officiate and burial will be in Oak Grove cemetery at Cottonwood.

Cross-Burning In Texas Creates New Tension

By United Press

A cross-burning at a Negro high school and a rock fight between white and Negro youths set the stage today for possible new tension over attempted school integration in Texas.

The disturbance broke out Tuesday night at the border city of Texarkana, where white pickets have prevented Negroes from entering a junior college.

A four-foot cross wrapped in kerosene-soaked cloth was set ablaze on the campus of Dunbar High School for Negroes. Later four white and seven Negro boys were arrested for fighting.

The Negroes said they were chased in their car by the white boys until overtaken and cornered and then the two groups hurled rocks at each other. The boys were to appear in city court today.

Authorities expected a large crowd of whites to gather again at Texarkana Junior College to prevent a Negro girl, who is backed by a court order, from attending classes.

But at Sturgis, Ky., and Clinton, Tenn., scenes of the worst violence thus far in the school integration controversy, the danger of mob violence and possible bloodshed appeared ended.

Guardsmen Withdraw

Negro leaders met in Sturgis to consider the prospects of safeguarding the Negro high school students after the remaining handful of National Guardsmen pulled out.

Most of the guardsmen withdrew during the night.

Attorneys for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People were expected to meet at Sturgis tonight to draw up a petition for additional court safeguards of integration.

They planned to ask for a federal court injunction against interference with the right of eight Negro teenagers to continue classes at the previously all-white Sturgis High School.

At Clay, Ky., near Sturgis, white pickets discouraged a Negro mother from making further attempts to enroll her two children.

Deadline Saturday For Local Registration In Retail Course

A deadline of Saturday has been set for Harrisburg men to register in the retail management course to start at 7:30 p. m. Tuesday, Oct. 2, at the Harrisburg Junior high school. If the student quota is not filled by then, applicants from surrounding towns will be enrolled. Registration can be made with Ronnie Doerge at Ronnie's studio. Fee for the course is $10.

Then the entire assemblage will sit down to eat a great picnic spread.

Republican leaders hoped the rally would give the GOP campaign a big lift.

They warned only Tuesday that

Vivid Description of England Given To Kiwanis Club by Miss Mollie Hutt

A vivid description of England, from the farm and countryside, the industrial Midlands of the average English workman, the nobleman and their impoverished estates, to the schools, was outlined to members of the Kiwanis club last night at the Masonic temple.

The speaker was Miss Mollie Hutt, school mistress of Nuneaton, England, who is visiting the Davenport families here. She was introduced to the club by her cousin, Dick Davenport.

Her hometown of Nuneaton has about 60,000 population, but nearby are Coventry with three million population and Birmingham with four and a half million people.

Farms Clearly Divided

English farms, Miss Hutt stated, are all very much smaller than those in the United States and are all clearly divided and separated from the roads with hedges. The roads, she stated, are usually winding and narrow, with hedges on each side, and one must back up if an auto meets another on the road.

She praised the roads in the United States, which, she said,

Republican Leaders Gather at Eisenhower Farm for Big Rally

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP)—President Eisenhower today gathered Republican leaders under a "big top" on his farm for a political one-day stand formally opening his re-election campaign.

The President invited nearly 500 GOP leaders from throughout the nation to the picnic-rally to eat ham and potato salad and listen to a series of campaign pep talks.

The big outdoor meeting was designed to drive away the complacency which Republican leaders have warned they must fear.

Mr. Eisenhower had planned to fly to Gettysburg shortly before noon in his light commuter plane, but low clouds and fog over the Gettysburg airport forced him to change his plans at the last minute and go by automobile.

The normally placid acres of the Eisenhower farm on the outskirts of this historic town looked more like the lay-out of a small traveling carnival than the residence of the President of the United States.

Mr. Eisenhower, with Vice President Richard M. Nixon by his side, was scheduled to sit in the center of a flag-draped table under the big tent while listening to reports from Republican leaders on GOP voter registration. He planned to speak last.

Then the entire assemblage will sit down to eat a great picnic spread.

Republican leaders hoped the rally would give the GOP campaign a big lift.

They warned only Tuesday that the Democratic victory in Maine showed "complacency . . . is our worst enemy." However, they said the election was decided on local rather than national issues.

The President told his news conference he did not regard the GOP defeat in Maine as a trend.

"I regard it as this," he said. "Maine had a very popular governor and they decided they wanted him again, and his majority was such that he helped every other person on the ticket."

The President also "deplored" reports that the percentage of Republicans failing to register for voting is higher than the comparable percentage of Democrats.

"I think everybody ought to vote," he said. "If a fellow felt he had to vote against me I still would rather he voted than not vote at all."

John D. Tolliver Dies at Christopher

John D. Tolliver of Christopher died suddenly Monday at 10 a. m. of coronary thrombosis.

He was the brother of Mrs. Hugh (Gleda) Miller of Carrier Mills.

Funeral services will be held Thursday at 1 p. m. at the First Baptist church in Christopher with the Rev. W. D. Berry officiating. Interment will be in the Masonic cemetery at Raleigh.

He is survived by his wife, Mamie, two daughters, Mrs. James Kennedy of Benton, and Mrs. Robert Platt of Peoria; two grandchildren and two step-grandchildren; a stepdaughter, Mrs. Andy Kevish of Harrisburg; a brother, Guy Tolliver of Christopher, and a sister, Gleda.

A son preceded him in death in April of 1954.

Eden Outlines West Strategy To Parliament

Receives Secret

American Note

Before His Address

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States confirmed today that it has agreed to join a Western-sponsored "users association" to run the Suez Canal.

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Sir Anthony Eden announced in Parliament today that the United States, Britain and France are joining in a "users association" to protect the rights of users of the Suez Canal.

Eden said that the association to insure that the canal is kept running will be formed "without delay."

"This organization will be provisional in character but we hope it will lead to a permanent agreement," Eden told an emergency session of Parliament.

The United States sent a secret note to Eden shortly before he went before the House to outline Anglo-French strategy in the deepening crisis over the vital waterway.

An Unexpected Move

An announcement similar to Eden's was delivered to the House of Lords by government spokesman Lord Salisbury.

Salisbury said the "users association" would employ pilots, undertake coordination of traffic and act as a voluntary association for the exercise of rights of canal users.

Eden said that "if the Egyptian government fails to cooperate with this organization they will be considered to have breached the 1956 convention assuring free passage through the canal."

The staid House of Commons erupted in cheers and opposition boos as Eden disclosed the totally unexpected joint move by the Big Three. American support had not been expected for such firm action.

Eden said that in the event of Egyptian refusal, "the British and French governments will then feel free to take such other steps—either through the United Nations or elsewhere as are deemed necessary."

Will Pay Egypt

Eden said the association would collect the canal tolls and would pay fair returns to Egypt.

This was the Western answer to Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser's flat rejection of the Dulles plan, which was far more lenient than the "users association" disclosed today.

"The decisions of the 18 powers (on the Dulles plan)," Eden said, "may well be regarded as a minimum requirement in the light of what has happened and in the interest of what the user nations have at stake."

The first step to pressure Egypt into accepting the bold plan already had been taken. It was a virtual recall of the non-Egyptian pilots, engineers and administrators who now operate the canal.

Suez pilots and canal employees from Britain, France, Holland, Norway and Italy simultaneously announced plans for a mass walk-out Friday night that could cripple and even end navigation of the Suez Canal.

Two American pilots told the United Press in Port Said they, too, would walkout this weekend.

Benton Grants First Permit for Oil Exploration in City

BENTON, Ill. (AP)—A permit for the first oil exploration within the city limits of Benton has been granted by the City Council to former Mayor C. Edwin Blair.

For the permit the city will receive $1,000 and a one-third-ownership interest in oil production. The drilling test is scheduled in the northwest part of the city.

Suez Pilots Are the Key

Editorial — BY BRUCE BLOSSAT
One of the little ironies of the Suez crisis is that the technical difficulties of navigating the canal are so great that they inevitably temper even the over-weening ambitions of Egyptian President Nasser.

He has the canal, but not the means to operate it. And that compelling fact is what put him in a mood to compromise.

As has often been noted, the pilots who guide ships through Suez are the crux of the technical problem. Without their highly developed skills, the canal is a treacherous waterway that ships
will not try to negotiate.

The Suez Canal Company, from which Nasser seized the canal, not too long ago invited ship captains of many maritime nations to take their vessels through without pilot assistance. There were no takers.
Ship companies couldn't get insurance.

Pictures of vessels passing thru Suez usually give a deceptive impression that it's an easy passage.
It is anything but that.

At many points the canal bottom is no more than 180 feet wide. Its sides slope outward to give broader width at the surface (minimum 500 feet), but the bottom width is crucial. To be off course one degree can mean running aground.

The enforced speed limit in the canal is seven miles per hour.
Even at this speed, a ship can't be halted in less than half a mile.

Over its 105-mile span the waterway has 12 major curves, so tricky to master because of powerful currents that in some spots
the helmsman steers left to go right. From the Mediterranean southward, the ships encounter high winds, often accompanied by blinding sandstorms, in the first half of the passage.

Today about 200 pilots, heavily overworked, take ships through.
Of the total some 50 are Egyptian, including about 30 still in the earliest training stages. There are many British and French pilots, and some 10 other countries are represented.

Standard procedure has required
applicants to have at least 10 years of effective navigational experience on the high seas. Qualified men thereafter spend two years
guiding craft through the wide Port Said roadstead on the approaches to the canal proper.

Next, two months of studying the canal itself as a "second man" to the active pilot, and then two months of trial piloting. If all tests are passed, the trainee is ready.

But his beginnings are on the smaller vessels. Only after eight to 10 years of piloting through Suez does he command the rank that puts him on the biggest vessels.

This is the situation into which Nasser has plunged his clumsy foot. Any substantial loss of experienced foreign pilots, particularly those in the upper ranks,
would gravely cripple waterway operations.

Splashing advertisements for pilots in newspapers around the world, as Nasser is doing, will not bail him out, either. All such pilots will of necessity have to undergo long and rigorous training before they can dare to guide ships through tricky Suez.

There are some things that even a dictator can't do anything about.

By DREW PEARSON

JACK ANDERSON Says:
Ike Has Receipts To Prove He Paid For Deep Freeze; His Policy Toward Gifts Discussed; Gettysburg Farm
Loaded With Valuable Gifts.

WASHINGTON. — The press is barraged from President Eisenhower's farm, but this column has uncovered some of its secrets.
Hidden in his basement, for example, is another deep freeze story.

This is the famous appliance that caused the Truman administration so much trouble. In 1949,
Maj. Gen. Harry Vaughan accepted two deep freeze units as gifts
for himself and the first lady, Bess Truman. Never has a cold machine generated so much heat.

The freezers became the subject of angry editorials, political attacks and finally a congressional investigation.

This column can report that Ike's basement contains not one but three deep freeze units. These are flanked by two roomy refrigerators, not counting the standard model in the kitchen. The President also keeps a huge, walk-in,
cold storage unit in his barn.

IKE KEEPS RECEIPTS
How did Ike get these symbols of Democratic "corruption?" You can be sure he paid for them. He also carefully preserved the bills of sale to prove it. He needs extra freezing equipment to handle the meat that is butchered on his farm.

However, Ike's Gettysburg farm is loaded with other items, less political but often more expensive, that he did not buy. He has been showered with more gifts than any President in history—valuable testimonials to his popularity.

This raises a question that has been discussed but never settled.
How far should the President go in accepting gifts? George Washington, for example, refused gifts from foreign countries. Most Presidents have accepted whatever came in, dividing the surplus among charities. But no clear rule has been followed.

ATTITUDE TOWARD GIFTS
Ike keeps most gifts that he feels come from well-meaning people. He is wary of promoters who might try to give him commercial products for free advertising. This has made him strict about mentioning brand names.

It would be ridiculous, of course, to suggest that Ike's policies could be influenced by a free tractor or an Angus heifer. He not only acknowledges but announces most gifts.

However, some unannounced gifts have also been delivered to the farm, which is out of bounds to the press and public. Press Secretary Jim Hagerty considers it the Eisenhowers' private home.
IKE'S FINANCES
The President has sunk over $267,500 of his own money in the farm. He paid $24,000 for the original 189 acres, another $16,000 for the stock and machinery. He has added parcels of land until he now owns about 469 acres, costing $142,518 total. He has spent about $100,000 expanding the original nine-room house into a rambling, spacious, 14-room structure, tailored to suit his own tastes rather than any architectural style.
Still more money has gone into new equipment.

To finance the farm, Ike has dipped into the $476,250 profit he made on his book, "Crusade in Europe." His presidential salary is $100,000, plus $80,000 travel and expense money. He takes in another $30,000 a year from outside investments, but gave up a $20,000

yearly salary when he resigned from the Army.

FREE FOLIAGE

The farm is landscaped with donated trees and shrubbery.
The half-mile driveway to the house is lined with spruce and quince trees, the spruce presented by the 48 state GOP committees and the quince by his cabinet.

The Washington cherry festival sent Ike a dozen cherry trees, and the Wenatchee, Wash., chamber of commerce gave some apple trees.
Another, unidentified donor delivered 400 nut trees. Ike personally accepted these and chatted with the donor, according to a farm-hand who was present.

The Gettysburg farm is equipped with a wood lot where Ike can go shooting, a pond stocked with bass and bluegill for fishing, and a putting green for him to practice golf. The contractor who installed the putting green (gift of the Professional Golf Association) said it was worth $1,000 not counting a year's free maintenance. The President has plenty of free sporting equipment, too, including two fishing rods selected by baseball slugger Ted Williams.

BARNYARD GIFTS

Most of Ike's cattle, including 20 valuable Black Angus, were donated. His sorrel mare, Doole-de Dee, was presented by the American Quarter Horse Association, complete with hand-tooled saddle. The association also gave a light bay, named Sporty Miss,
to Ike's grandchildren. The kids already had a black-and-white pony, however, given by J. R.
Lackey of Asheville, N. C.

The President has received an assortment of hogs, hens and other barnyard varieties as gifts.
Probably his favorite, however,
is a shiny, red-and-yellow tractor
with a built-in radio, worth $4, 000. This was presented by the Black Hawk-Cockshutt Farm Equipment Company through the Farm Bureau Associations of Indiana, Ohio and Pennsylvania.

GIS WORK ON FARM

The topsoil on the Eisenhower farm, worn out when they bought it, has been rehabilitated through the Soil Conservation Service. Ike also sold $1,000 worth of wheat to the government the year before he ran for President, but the Agriculture Department now won't talk about the farm.

Enlisted men are called from Camp David when Ike needs extra help on the farm. Once a subcontractor was late digging a ditch three-quarters of the way around the farmhouse to install electronics equipment. On deadline day, it poured down rain. The sub-contractor couldn't find civilian workmen who would finish the job. So a handful of disgruntled GIs were rounded up. They worked through the downpour to meet the deadline.

VALUABLE CHINAWARE

Mamie also has received gifts for inside the house, including valuable china. One set: 26
Royal Berlin porcelain plates heavily decorated in gold and centered with portraits of the nation's first ladies. Each plate took 15 months to decorate.

Valuable furniture and ceramics, once owned by the distinguished Washington dowager
Mrs. Frederick Keep, were recently offered to the White House.
Staff members picked out the best, not for the White House but for the Gettysburg home.

Most citizens don't begrudge the Eisenhowers these gifts in the first home they have ever owned.

Hunter Selected For Graduate Work By Health Dept.

Guy J. Hunter, area health educator with main offices in Harrisburg, has been selected by the State of Illinois Health Department to receive a stipend for graduate work at the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor.

Mr. Hunter, former assistant county superintendent of schools and former coach and assistant principal of the Carrier Mills Community high school, will attend the Horace G. Rackham graduate school of the University of Michigan. The school term begins Sept.
17; and upon completion of the school year, Mr. Hunter will return to his office with the Egyptian Health Department.

Mr. Hunter holds a Master of Science degree from Southern Illinois University. In addition he has studied at Louisiana State University, Western State Teachers College and Shreveport University, England. At the University of Michigan he will be doing additional graduate work in the field of public health education.

Thinking It Over

By Robert L. Dieffenbacher, D.D.
(Written for NEA Service)

We do not like to be told that our aches and pains are only imagined.
We rebel at the idea that most of our human ills are psychosomatic.
We know that our ailments are real and that they should be treated with real medicines.

Of course, we are willing to admit that the sufferings of other people are probably due to emotional maladjustments. They "think themselves into their difficulties."
We know that we are different.
It is true that we are different because no two people are alike.

No two people suffer in the same manner. Regardless of the reality of our ailments, there is a healing power which comes from the nearness of God.

When we pray unselfishly and talk to the Creator He heals many of our imagined and real ills. He helps us make adjustments so that the body, mind and soul coordinate. When the human and spiritual functions are normal, there are less ills and less pain.

Even those ailments which are not cured are more easily taken when our spirits are at peace with God. The body, mind and soul do not ache as much when God is present with people. We must learn to pray more constantly—not merely on occasions.

Young trees should be planted within 48 hours after they are received.

Marks-Burroughs Marriage Solemnized Aug. 31 at Spillerton

Beneath a white arch entwined with greenery and flanked with baskets of gladioli Miss Martha Lorene Marks, daughter of Mrs. Clara Marks of RFD 1, Marion, and John Lee Burroughs, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Burroughs, exchanged wedding vows Friday, Aug. 31, at 7:30 p. m. at the Spillerton Baptist church.

The Rev. J. D. McCarty officiated at the double ring, candlelight ceremony.

The bride wore a floor length gown of satin fashioned with a chantilly lace jacket with a sweetheart neckline and a lace overskirt. Her fingertip veil of illusion was secured to a headpiece of seed pearls. She wore a single strand of pearls which was a gift of the bridegroom, and carried a colonial bouquet of white carnations.

Mrs. Frank Fisher, friend of the bride, was matron of honor, wearing a lime green waltz length gown of net and lace with matching hat and veil. She carried yellow chrysanthemums.

Dr. Charles R. Burroughs, 312 South Fourth, Knoxville, Ia., brother of the bridegroom, served as best man.

Ushers were William Marks, brother of the bride, Marion, and Jack Wallace, Carbondale, cousin of the bridegroom.

Mrs. Robert Keltner, pianist, accompanied the soloist, Phillip Boren of Harrisburg, who sang "O Promise Me" "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Margie Marks, niece of the bride, was flower girl, wearing a white over pink dress and carrying a small basket filled with rose petals which she sprinkled in the path of the bride.

Mrs. Marks chose for her daughter's wedding a gray silk print with black accessories and a white carnation corsage. The bridegroom's mother wore a rose silk print dress with white accessories and a white carnation corsage.

A reception was held in the church basement where the bride's table was centered with a three tiered cake topped with a miniature bride and groom. Greenery encircled the cake.

Hostesses were Mrs. William Marks, Mrs. Leon Langan, Hermin, and Miss Hallie Richey of Marion.

The bridegroom is a graduate student at Southern Illinois University. He was graduated from the Harrisburg Township high school with the class of 1949 and is a Korean war veteran.

The bride was graduated from the Marion high school in 1953 and is a senior at SIU.

The couple left for a wedding trip through the Smoky Mountains after which they will be home at 310 Graham street in Carbondale.

Mrs. Arthur Moore is in Chicago visiting with relatives and friends. She will enter the Illinois Research hospital for a checkup.

Michael Hillegas Chapter Has Program On First Ladies of Our Country

The Michael Hillegas chapter of the D. A. R. held its first fall meeting at the home of Mrs. Charles Ford Jr. Monday, Sept. 10.

The meeting was brought to order by Mrs. Harley Shepherd, regent. Mrs. Ralph Brown read the ritual and Mrs. D. E. Cavender read a verse from the Star Spangled Banner.

Minutes were read by Mrs. Tom Wolf and the treasurer's report was given by Mrs. Herman Boatright. The chapter thanked Mrs. Nelle Cline for her outstanding work as Red Cross chairman. Mrs. Shepherd welcomed back Mrs. C. A. Ferguson and Mrs. C. E. Combe.

The seventh division meeting will be held in Cairo Sept. 25 and the members were all urged to attend and invited to a party Sept. 24 at Magnolia Manor in Cairo.

Mrs. Shepherd reviewed the year book and thanked Mrs. Pat Sullivan and her committee for the nice programs prepared for the year. The chapter presented Mrs. Joe A. Logsdon, formerly Mary Anne Humm, with two D. A. R. plates, a gift from the chapter to all its new brides.

Mrs. Sullivan introduced Mrs. Frank Gray who was in charge of the program for the evening, assisted by Mrs. Victor Humm.

Mrs. Gray gave a most interesting and educational program on the "First Ladies of Our Country," showing slides of their gowns and rooms from Martha Washington to the present first lady, Mrs. Eisenhower. A description was read by Mrs. Humm and then Mrs. Gray gave a full report on the outstanding characteristics of the women.

Fruit cake and coffee were served.

Higher Standards Seen

Solving Teacher Shortage

CHEYENNE, Wyo. — "One way to solve the teacher shortage is to make it harder to be one, according to a Wyoming school official.

State Superintendent of Public Instruction Velma Linford said more students are attracted to teaching as a career when standards are raised to a professional level—both socially and from a salary standpoint.

She said states which have raised teacher certification standards have experienced a sharp increase in the number of teacher applicants.

"High standards create a respect for teaching which is responsible for attracting the larger numbers of students to the profession," she added.

HOLLYWOOD TODAY!

MOVIES • TV • RADIO
by Erskine Johnson

HOLLYWOOD — (NEA) — On stage, Offstage and Upstage: A movie writer thought he had topped all of the cruelty charges ever hurled in a Hollywood divorce court when he wrote a scene for "Quantez," a new western co-starring Fred MacMurray and Dorothy Malone. The movie's villain, John Larch, tears an earring out of the lobe of Dorothy's ear! Day after writing the scene, the film scenarioist gulped over silent film star Molly O'Day's testimony in divorcing wealthy oilman James Keniston.

Molly said that her husband broke a raw egg on her head, put shaving cream in her hair, and kicked her into the oven while she was basting a Thanksgiving turkey.

Charlie Chaplin is denying reports that his made-in-England movie, "A King in New York," is an anti-American blast. Says Chaplin: "The picture is no more anti-American than 'Teahouse of the August Moon' or any comedies that poke good-natured fun at Americans."

EDGAR BERGEN, worried about TV "burning up" comedians, predicts "I'll be washed up in two years." No comedian, argues Bergen, should be on television once a week. . . . Peter Lawford will join Judy Garland's singing act when she opens at the Palace theater in September.

Don DeFore is bowing out as a regular on "The Adventures of Ozzie and Harriet," television series to devote more time to movies and live TV shows. . . . Maureen O'Sullivan, mother of seven, was asked on the set of Columbia's "The Captives" how she finds time for a career and motherhood.

"I avoid talking," she replied, "to people who do not know what to do with their spare time."

One Los Angeles theater's answer to free TV competition: No admission charge for kiddies on Saturday afternoons. But big profits on popcorn and candy.

WHEN IN ROME note: An actor friend of Jeff Morrow parked his car in a taboo zone in Rome and returned to find this notice from the Rome police under his windshield wiper: "Rome, the most cherished goal of international tourism, is happy to welcome you. It often happens that even the most careful driver infringes without meaning to the rules of the highway code. In this instance, you have failed to observe the rule contained in article 32. The authorities are quite convinced that this infringement was unintentional and wish you a happy stay in Rome."

Pals insist Cleo Moore is dead serious about her plans to run for governor of Louisiana in 1960. "And why not?" Cleo wants to know. "All good politicians are good actors, so what's so funny about an actress being a politician?"

Sport Takes: That health farm patronized by aging dolls near Phoenix, Ariz., is called "The Last Chance Salon" by local wits. . . . Jerry Lewis is planning another movie minus Dean Martin. ### Extension Course, Night Classes For Area Nurses

CARBONDALE, Ill. — To prepare more area nurses for positions of greater responsibility, Southern Illinois University's Nursing Department will conduct an extension course and a series of night classes this fall, according to Miss Virginia Harrison, department chairman.

"Since many southern Illinois nurses have expressed an interest in furthering their education, we are adding courses as rapidly as possible," the department chairman said in announcing the new offerings.

Miss Harrison will teach the extension course, allowing four quarter hours of college credit, which deals with nursing from its beginning to the present day, including a study of steps being taken to meet current needs.

Sessions are scheduled for 6:30 to 9 p. m. each Monday night beginning Sept. 24 at the Veterans Administration Hospital in Marion. There will be a two-week interruption at Christmas time and the final examination will be given Jan. 14.

Miss Harrison said fees, payable at the first class meeting, will be under $10. Those who do not register the first week will be required to pay a $2 late registration fee.

In addition to the extension course, a series of 12 weekly classes, planned in cooperation with the 14th District of the Illinois State Nurses' Association and restricted to graduate nurses, will be conducted by Mrs. Hazel LeFevre. Meetings will be in Main 101 at the University from 7:30 to 9 p. m. each Monday, beginning Sept. 24.

Doctors and nurses will assist in the instruction, designed to bring area nurses up to date on developments in medical and nursing care. Preliminary registration already is in progress for the non-credit course, which will be limited to 20 students.

Americans in Middle Years Called 'Younger'

BERKELEY, Calif. — A University of California physiologist analyzed disease and mortality tables in Europe and America and reported that Americans are living longer and in better health.

Dr. Hardin Jones said that, furthermore, Americans in the middle years are physiologically four years younger than their predecessors living at the beginning of the century.

More individuals today live to reach adult life; they contract heart disease and cancer later in life, and now it appears that five to 20 years have been added to the productive early middle life, he said.

He said increasing numbers of people die of arteriosclerosis and cancer. But the chances of these diseases striking a given individual in a given year of middle and old age are decidedly smaller than they were 50 years ago.

Dr. Jones' studies led him to the conclusion that aging is the result of the impairment of the body's internal chemical processes by infectious disease and injury.

Nurses, Aides to Attend Work- Meet Oct. 8-12

CARBONDALE, Ill. — Nurses and technical aids from six states already have made reservations for a Work-Conference on Operating Room and Central Supply Room Nursing to be conducted

Oct. 8-12 at Giant City State Park Lodge under the sponsorship of Southern Illinois University's Department of Nursing.

Purpose of the meeting is to train hospital personnel in the latest techniques of surgical patient care and supply room procedures, according to Miss Virginia Harrison, department chairman.

Conference director will be Miss Frances Ginsberg, R. N., operating room nurse consultant for the Bingham Associates Program of the New England Center Hospital in Boston.

A graduate of the Beth Israel Hospital School of Nursing in Boston and Boston University, Miss Ginsberg served in the Army Nurse Corps during World War II. She has been a Bingham consultant for the past five years.

SIU speakers at the conference will include Miss Harrison, Carl C. Lindgren, director of the Biological Research Laboratory, and Guy A. Renzaglia, director of the Rehabilitation Counselor Training Program.

Workshop enrollment will be limited to 60, and the registration deadline is Sept. 20. The registration fee is $15, plus the cost of meals and lodging.

States already to be represented at the conference besides Illinois are Oklahoma, Missouri, Tennessee, Kentucky and Indiana.

Canadian World War I Ace Dies

PALM BEACH, Fla. —Funeral arrangements for World War I Canadian air ace William Avery Bishop were delayed today pending notification of his son and daughter of his death.

Bishop, who shot down 72 enemy planes during the first World War and became the British empire's greatest air ace of all time, died at his winter home here Tuesday at the age of 62.

An illness of a year's duration had prevented his return to his native Canada last summer. He had spent winters here for the past 20 years.

Civil Aeronautics Board Ousts Attorney

WASHINGTON —The Civil Aeronautics Board today ousted CAB attorney Albert H. Ruppard for violating a rule which bars CAB employees from buying or owning airlines stock.

Ruppard, an attorney in the board's Bureau of Air Operations, acknowledged at a board hearing Tuesday that he bought 1,000 shares of Northeast Airlines stock on Aug. 3, one day after the board had voted secretly to grant North-east a lucrative New York-Miami route.

Gulf Defends Tax Deduction on Gas Bill Fund

WASHINGTON —Two officials testified today that the Gulf Oil Corp. made income tax reductions on $111,000 it contributed to an "education" campaign on behalf of the recently vetoed natural gas bill.

They said the firm regarded the contribution as a legitimate business expense. They said the corporation did not deduct $3,800 it contributed to a General Gas Committee which frankly lobbied to pass the gas bill.

The two witnesses were Board Chairman Sidney A. Swensrud and General Counsel Archie D. Gray. They testified at the special Senate Lobbying Committee resumed hearings on lobbying activities in connection with the gas bill.

Swensrud and Gray both said they considered the General Gas Committee a lobbying organization designed to influence Congress in favor of the legislation.

Swensrud defended the $111,000 contribution to the "Natural Gas and Oil Resources Committee" as a business expense because the organization was engaged in "education" activities about the gas industry.

But under questioning by Chairman John L. McClellan (D-Ark), he and Gray admitted that the company decided not to deduct the $3,800 to the General Gas Committee after the lobbying group began its hearings.

They said they considered it a contribution to a "lobbying organization" and therefore not deductible.

Stevenson Discusses Campaign Strategy With Eastern Democratic Leaders

NEW YORK —Adlai E. Stevenson huddled with eastern Democratic leaders today to get their advice on campaign strategy.

Party bigwigs from Pennsylvania, Delaware, New Jersey, New York, West Virginia, Maryland and the District of Columbia met to talk tactics with the Democratic presidential nominee.

It was the last in a series of eight regional parleys that Stevenson and his running mate, Sen. Estes Kefauver, have held around the country in an air tour of almost 12,000 miles in two weeks.

Of the six states represented here today, only West Virginia fell into the Democratic column in 1952. But Stevenson's lieutenants have high hopes of doing better in this Mid-Atlantic region this year—particularly in Pennsylvania.

Stevenson will make an off-the-record talk here tonight at a fund-raising dinner, and then take a plane to Harrisburg, Pa., where he will deliver his official campaign "kickoff" speech Thursday night.

Stevenson got a rousing reception Tuesday night at the Liberal Party convention here, which nominated him and Kefauver to head its ticket too.

An estimated 3,500 persons rocked the hall with laughter and applause when Stevenson attacked the Eisenhower administration in a speech loaded with quips.

He charged that Vice President Richard M. Nixon has put on "a new face" and is trying to convince the voters that "everything he has said and done in past years bears no relation to himself."

Stevenson said in sarcasm that there should be some word from Nixon "repudiating the irresponsible, vindictive and malicious words so often spoken by the impostor who has been using his name all these years."

Attacks Nixon Nixon also came under indirect attack from Kefauver, who said if he is elected vice president he will not "have to spend any of my time apologizing for my conduct while seeking the votes of the American people."

Out-of-Town Relatives Attend Gaskins Funeral

Out-of-town relatives attending the funeral of Mrs. Ruth Gaskins, held at McKinley Avenue Baptist church Friday, included:

Mr. and Mrs. Don Richardson of Cape Girardeau, Mo.; Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Richardson and daughter of Alto Pass; Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Gaskins of Oak Park, and daughter, Jerre Ann, Mrs. George Kessinger of Brookfield, and Mrs. Tom Gaskins and children, Pat and Paul, of Ashton, Mrs. Sarge Kessley and daughter, Louella, of Chicago, Mrs. Ernest Sturm of Elmhurst, and Jay Gaskins of Tucson, Ariz.

All have returned to their homes.

Arabs Report Israeli Raid on Jordan; 20 Dead

JERUSALEM —Arab press reports said Israeli "invaders" blew up a Jordanian police station in Hebron, Jordan, early today and killed at least 20 Jordanians.

The new incident brought to 31 the number of Arabs and Israelis reported killed in border clashes within the last 36 hours and threatened the Middle East with yet another crisis.

It came at a time of heightened Israeli tension over the Suez Canal that followed reports the West would not include Egypt's blockade of Israeli shipping in any action against Egyptian seizure of the waterway.

The tension spread to the borders of Israel and its Arab neighbors today and Jordan charged that Israeli forces invaded Jordan around midnight and inflicted heavy casualties. Arab press reports the invading force at infantry battalion strength to 1,000 men.

Egypt charged that an Israeli patrol invaded Egyptian territory Tuesday and killed five Egyptians. Israeli Foreign Office officials accused Jordan of killing six Israeli soldiers and wounding three others Tuesday night inside Israel. A spokesman said the Israeli victims were dragged across the border to make it appear they had invaded Jordan.

Lengthy Session Held by County Board

a few hundred in his addressograph account. Also transferred was $6,413.32 from the sheriff's highway fund into the county officers' fund.

Approve Salary Claims

First order of business was the paying of the county clerk's employees. Payment was made under the scale of $225 for first deputy, $200 for second and third deputy and $200 for extra help after State's Attorney Robert V. Wilson gave an opinion that he could see nothing illegal—although the matter would be discretionary with the board—to approve claims of employees of regularly elected officials even if they exceeded the appropriation. He also said there would have to be money available before they could be paid.

A question had been: Can the board pay help if they already have drawn more pay this year than was set up for them? It was indicated that some may have and that some may have not.

The consensus of many members was that County Clerk Don B. Garrison and his bonding company would be responsible for any excesses in salary payments over appropriated amounts and that employees now working were entitled to pay at the amounts specified by the board. It was never definitely established as to whether the fund from which employees are paid is exhausted or not.

Assessments Discussed

Judge Dennis said in his checking of oil assessments turned in to the treasurer that there was an approximate assessment county of $4,775,975, that of this amount about $258,445 was held in suspension and that there were no mailing addresses for $1,261,790. If the suspensions and those with no mailing lists were not collected, he said, it would mean about $45,000 less in tax moneys.

Barney Fitzgerald, appraiser, said that the suspensions are caused by pending litigation to determine titles and thus know where to send the statements, and that schedules are continuing to come in, that the books are not closed. He said he felt sure that a big part of these taxes would be collected.

Dennis also pointed out differences in assessments of various oil wells, listing a number he said were underassessed on oil production and one that he said was overassessed 36.90.

Dennis also talked generally about assessments, urging assessors to get their books in to the board of review earlier so the board can get its work done. He also urged levying what was needed in taxes but for the board to hold down levies where there are accumulated surpluses.

Senator Wiley Is Renominated

451 votes to Langlie's 235,711. Big surprise was the defeat of Gov. J. Bracken Lee by political newcomer George D. Clyde in Utah's GOP gubernatorial battle. Lee hoped to win the nomination and to seek an unprecedented third term as the state's governor.

L. C. Romney — Salt Lake City commissioner — led Attorney John S. Boyden of Salt Lake City for the Democratic governor bid. State Sen. Alonzo F. Hopkin held a solid lead over former Gov. Herbert B. Maw in the Democratic senatorial race.

In Arizona, Sen. Carl Hayden was a shoo-in for the Democratic nomination to seek a sixth consecutive term in the U. S. Senate. The 78-year old Democrat ran away from Phoenix druggist Robert E. Miller, who conceded he was beaten. Hayden, who hopes to become dean of the Senate, has been in Congress since 1912 when Arizona became a state.

Meanwhile, former state Attorney General Ross Jones, Phoenix, tallied a sizable lead over Albert MacKenzie, Phoenix, attorney, in the GOP senatorial nomination battle.

Vermont was the first state to render a decision, with Republican incumbents renominated without opposition. They included U. S. Sen. George D. Aiken, Gov. Joseph B. Johnson and U. S. Rep. Winston L. Prouty.

Unopposed Democratic winners were E. Frank Branon for the governorship, and Bernard O'Shea a weekly newspaper publisher who hoped to unseat Aiken.

In New Hampshire, Gov. Lane Dwinell, U. S. Sen. Norris Cotton and the two GOP congressmen of the state were renominated.

Dwinell, long an Eisenhower supporter, had the closest battle with Attorney Wesley Powell.

GOP Reps. Chester E. Merrow and Perkins Bass were winners again on their party tickets. Merrow will oppose Democratic Attorney James B. Sullivan and Bass will face nursing home operator George F. Brown in November.

Anchor Nelsen, former REA administrator, was nominated on the Republican ticket to oppose Gov. Orville Freeman in the Minnesota gubernatorial contest in November. Nelsen and Freeman—a Democrat—easily won nomination over several political unknowns.

All nine of the state's congressmen—five Democrats and four Republicans—were renominated. The Democrats were unopposed, and included Mrs. Coya Knutson, the state's first congresswoman. Former pro basketball star George Mikan won nomination on the Republican ticket to oppose incumbent Rep. Roy Weir in November.

Pittsburgh Firm Completes Laying 110 Miles of Coal-Carrying Pipeline

PITTSBURGH —Pittsburgh Consolidation Coal Co. announced today completion of the laying of 110 miles of pipe for the nation's first coal carrying pipeline which is scheduled to go into operation early next year.

The 10-inch line will deliver coal from Pitt-Consol's Georgetown, Ohio, mining operations to the Eastlake power station of Cleveland Electric Illuminating Co. at the rate of 150 tons an hour.

The 10-million-dollar line is buried four feet beneath the surface. These pumping stations, which will push a mixture of half fine coal

Japanese Ships Find Life Rafts

TOKYO —The Japanese Coast Guard said today it had found five or six life rafts in the Japan Sea thought to be from a U. S. Air Force B50 weather plane which disappeared in typhoon Emma Monday with 16 men aboard.

The coast guard said it found the rafts drifting in the Japan Sea between Japan and Korea about 125 miles east of the Korean coast and 160 miles due south of Vladivostok, Russia.

It said no survivors were found aboard the rafts and that no wreckage of the plane had been sighted.

Twenty-seven American aircraft took off at dawn today to look for survivors and wreckage of the missing plane. An Air Force spokesman said the search would continue "as long as any hope remains."

Japanese ships and a U. S. Navy destroyer joined the search today.

Religion, Show Business Walk Together

By DICK KLEINER
NEA Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK (NEA)—Praise the Lord and pass the royalty check. Religion and show business are walking hand in hand and both groups seem to be happy about the whole thing.

Around the Brill Building on Broadway—which is a sort of vertical Tin Pan Alley—they're saying that music is on "a religious kick."

In the midtown movie company offices—which tell Hollywood what to film—they talk about the "great grosses" racked up by religious movies.

Along Madison Avenue—headquarters for the television industry—they speak of a "resurgence of religious programming."

Added together, this means that religion is big show business. Religious-flavored songs are moving, films with religious subjects are doing well at the box office and religious TV programs, which used to be aired strictly as a public service, are now getting better and better ratings and attracting sponsors, too.

Consider the pop music field. Time was when the only possible subjects for popular music were love, mother or the weather. But look at some of the big selling records of the moment:

Tony Martin's "Walk Hand In Hand," Perry Como's "Somebody Up There Likes Me," The Platters' "My Prayer," Caterina Valente's "There But For the Grace of God Go I," Joni James' "Give Us This Day," Frankie Laine's "Make Me a Child Again," Gordon MacRae's "I Asked the Lord" and the Sunday School Church Choir's "Don't Send Your Kids to Sunday School, Get Up and Take 'Em Yourself."

This is a partial list. There are others. Some are patent attempts by hack songwriters to hop on the Biblical bandwagon; some are heartfelt and sincere. All are catering to what must be a fairly widespread feeling that musical religious tributes find a welcome place in most American homes.

Some of the songs have been used as subjects of sermons. Some have been criticized from pulpits as being "trashy" and "too commercial." But most ministers apparently feel the religious songs are merely a sign of the times—a sign of the rebirth of religious interest.

Hollywood's interest in religion is historic—some of the greatest spectacles to be put on film have drawn their stories from the rich dramatic treasury that is the Bible. Upcoming is one that may be the colossalest, stupendousest, giganticest yet—Cecil B. DeMille's "The Ten Commandments."

But what makes Hollywood more interested in religion than ever is the success of two low-budget, unheralded sleepers—"The Miracle of Fatima" and "Martin Luther." Both continue to play, continue to make money, continue to be greeted joyously by ministers and movie critics alike.

Hollywood has always known that the big spectacle could make money, but these two are virtually the first inexpensive films with religious subjects to be profitable. Result is that more of the same is on the way.

Television, the third medium to feel the religious rebirth, started out to follow radio's footsteps—a certain amount of religious programming was scheduled, but mainly as a sop to the church. It was put on in poor times, haphazardly, with little or no effort spent in production. There was the one notable exception—Bishop Fulton J. Sheen—but that's all.

Then, last season, an independent producer named Bernard Schubert turned out a series of half-hour films called "Crossroads." These were dramatic stories, true stories of the experiences of real ministers, priests and rabbis. They were successfully syndicated, scored high ratings in many cities.

Many programs, put on by the churches themselves, have become popular. Some network shows, like "Frontiers of Faith," "Lamp Unto My Feet" and "Look Up and Live," have gotten increasingly good response.

Schubert is now planning another program—a panel show which would have ministers of the three faiths discussing religious ques-

Radiological Detection Course To Be Taught Here

The facts of wartime life in the atomic age will be the subject of a class in Radiological Detection being offered by Southern Illinois University this fall to survival minded residents of Harrisburg, Carmi and Murphysboro. The course is being given by the SIU Division of Technical and Adult Education in cooperation with the Illinois Civil Defense Agency.

Included in the 10-week course will be instruction in radiological decontamination, facts about fallout, home protection, emergency care and "Six Steps for Survival." Students will work with radiological detection instruments in mock disaster situations.

According to H. B. Bauernfeind, assistant dean of Southern's TAE Division, instructional equipment provided by the state civil defense agency, will be given to the respective towns at the end of the course.

However, at least 20 people must sign up for the course before it will be held.

Classes in each town will be held weekly from 7 to 10 p. m. Tuition is $9 for the entire course, including materials.

The practice exercise equipment kits to be given each class of 20 or more consist of nine dosimeters, (individual units to measure the amount of radiation absorbed by the carrier); two Geiger counters; two medium-range survey meters (radiation counting devices); two high-range beta-gamma survey meters (counters to measure beta-gamma radiation); two chargers to use with the dosimeters; 30 millicuries of the radioisotope Cobalt 60; a lead container to stir the Cobalt and a long-handled tong to work with the Cobalt. The radioisotope will be used to calibrate detection equipment.

Graduates of the program will be certified as area defense radio-logists and will be entrusted with the equipment.

Registration dates for the course in Harrisburg will be Tuesday, Sept. 18, from 7 to 8 p. m. at the Harrisburg Junior high school. Guy DeNeal will be the instructor. Similar classes have been successfully completed in Greenville, Roxana and Granite City.

Peithmann to Gather Material For Third Book

CARBONDALE, Ill. — Irvin Peithmann, Southern Illinois University author of two books on Indian history and folklore, will return to Florida this fall to resume his study of the Seminole Indians and gather material for a third book. He will be on leave from the University until February.

Since his last trip to the Florida Everglades in December of 1953, Peithmann has completed a book, "The Seminoles: Their Culture and History," which is being published by the Great Outdoors Association at St. Petersburg, Fla. The cover for this book was designed by Prof. Ben Watkins of the SIU Art Department.

The book he is presently working on concerning the Seminoles is scheduled for publication by the same firm late next year.

Beginning in October, Peithmann will journey through the Everglades, Big Cypress Swamp, Big Cypress Indian Reservation and the Brighton Reservation near Lake Okechobee. The Florida Department of Conservation will furnish guides for Peithmann's tours, which will be made in propeller driven airboats.

Dr. George Neumann, chairman of the anthropology department at Indiana University, will join Peithmann early in December. Neumann will study physical characteristics of the Seminoles. Another traveling companion will be Bob Becker, outdoor editor of the Chicago Tribune.

A former curator of the SIU Museum, Peithmann has been associated with the University for more than 25 years. He presently is research assistant in Southern's

THE LONG NIGHT

By MARTIN CAIDIN

Copyright 1956 by Martin Caidin. Distributed by NEA Service.

THE STORY: A Yellow Alert has been sent out by the Civil Defense authorities of Harrington because three unidentified planes have been sighted flying toward the city.

III
In a darkened room aglow with the sweep of illuminated hands about radar screens, the "man on the ground," the fighter ground controller, guided the two jets in the sky.

He mumbled to a companion, also searching the glowing screen, "Can't pick up a thing on here. Anybody flying out there is just too low."

The two minutes ground on. Abruptly the speaker flung out the sound of the jet pilot's voice: "Ice Cream Charlie. This is Red Leader Two."

"Red Leader Two from Ice Cream Charlie. Go ahead."

"Have intercepted bogies. Can make out three aircraft. Swept-wing. Bogies do not respond to code of the day recogni..."

The pilot's voice broke off. Hammers pounding on metal skin screeched explosively from the loudspeaker.

"... Bogies have opened fire. We are going in."

A hush in the music brought Henry Thompson upright in his theater seat. Listen! Air raid sirens! Rising and falling, wailing, crying their plaintive message of destruction riding the sky. Panic welled up in Henry Thompson's throat. He was standing; without realizing it, he had risen from his seat. Face contorted, he listened with his conscious mind while the long-familiar inner voice of "It-can't-be, anything-it-will-never-happen-here" scurried before the sirens' reality. His wife clutched his sleeve. "Henry! What's the matter, dear?" The house lights came on even as the screen flickered and faded away, as the sound track groaned to a stop. A confusion of voices bubbled into a torrent of frightened questioning as the movie-goers rose to their feet.

"Your attention, please! Give me your attention, please!" The manager's voice boomed from the loudspeakers, quelling for the moment the growing urge to race for the exits, the ballooning panic which might suddenly explode with the violence of dynamite. "There is no immediate danger," the loudspeaker cried. "If you will all move quietly and calmly, there is plenty of room to shelter everybody. We have just received an air raid warning. I repeat. There is no immediate danger."

Henry Thompson usually sat in the rear of a theater, along the aisle. When the manager realized that he had the crowd under control, Henry Thompson gasped, "The control center I've got to get there right away!"

Pulling his wife by the arm, Thompson dashed out of the theater. Behind him 600 ordinary, excitable human beings, their thin thread of control snapping like a taut wire in the face of well-publicized atomic doom, erupted into a frenzied urge also to escape from the suddenly confining walls. The loudspeaker's pleas for order were drowned amid the screams of the crazed, the shrieks of those underfoot, the pitiful pleas of the crushed.

Half dragging his wife, Thompson ran along the block to his parked car. Janet Thompson leaned against the auto as her husband fumbled for his keys. The sirens were still. A few people left on the streets were quickly disappearing into buildings.

"Listen, Janet," the words tumbled from Henry Thompson's lips. "You'll never get a cab now. Run home. You'll be able to make it." He sucked in air. "There's plenty of time to get home if there's really going to be any trouble. Make sure Donald is all right. Don't worry about Terry, she'll be well taken care of in school."

The car door swung open and he slid behind the wheel. As the motor came to life, he continued, "Get Donald and go down into the basement. Stay there until you hear the sirens again or until I call you. Whatever you do, don't go out. Now, hurry!"

At exactly 33 minutes past nine o'clock, a sun burst into blinding, searing, silent existence over the city of Harrington. There was no sound as within a millionth of a second the tiniest brilliance of pure light gave birth to a raging ball of fire expanding more than a thousand feet across, half a mile above the city.

At that instant time stood still. No person ever saw that newborn star flare into its microsecond of existence. No sound was heard as light, pure, unbearable all-enveloping, unbelievable light washed over and poured into the city. Harrington lay blinded before this thing no man could ever see without having his eyes fall completely. Janet Thompson, running that last half-block home to her 13-year-old son Donald, appeared to stop, to solidify in her steps. In that brief instant Henry Thompson's wife was cloaked with invisibility by the searing brilliance from the fireball half a mile above. Her hair, her clothes, her flesh seemed to explode into fire as the fierce radiation embraced her. In that moment life left this woman; even as her body was further enveloped by flame, still searching the ground toward which it fell, a thousand-mile-an-hour hurricane hurled the fiery corpse through the air.

Janet Thompson was the first of 189,868 citizens of the city of Harrington to die as World War III began.

Johnny Saxton-Carmen Basilio Bout Tonight

SYRACUSE, N. Y. (AP)—Belated public appreciation that Johnny Saxton is indeed the world welterweight champion finally hammered the betting price down to "even money" for his first defense of the recaptured crown tonight against ex-champ Carmen Basilio.

And the trend of the year's heaviest fight-wagering indicated 26-year old Johnny would be favored when they enter the ring at War Memorial Auditorium at 10 p. m. EDT for their return 15-round TV title go.

Twenty-nine year old Basilio, the former onion farmer of nearby Chittenango, N. Y., had been favored at odds ranging down from 9-5 despite his controversial loss of the 147-pound title to Saxton of New York at the Chicago Stadium, March 14.

Co-promoters Norman Rothschild and Jim Norris lowered their sights a bit from the sell-out target of $150,000 and said they expected about 8,000 fans and $140,000, in addition to the $75,000 from television and radio.

GRID EXPERTS—Again teaming up as the commentators for NBC-TV's "Game of the Week" football telecasts this fall are Red Grange (at top), the former "Galloping Ghost of Illinois," and Lindsey Nelson, a veteran football broadcaster and NBC's assistant sports director. NBC-TV launches the NCAA-approved schedule of telecasts with the Kentucky-Georgia Tech clash Saturday, Sept. 22. The regional games will be televised by Station WSIL, Harrisburg.

WSIL to Televis World Series, College and Pro Football Games

A full sports program of World Series baseball games and college and professional football contests will be televised over WSIL-TV this fall.

The World Series and college football games will be carried over the National Broadcasting Co. facilities on Saturday afternoons and except for two instances, professional games will be on Sunday afternoons.

The college games will feature NCAA contests of national interest and regional Big Ten grid games. The Big Ten contests will be announced later.

College football will get under way Sept. 22 with a game between Kentucky and Georgia Tech. The Sept. 29 contestants will be announced later and on Oct. 6 Texas Christian will meet Arkansas.

Both the Oct. 13 and Oct. 20 games will be announced later, and on Oct. 27 there will be a great grid classic between Notre Dame and Oklahoma.

Yet to be announced are the Nov. 3, Nov. 17 and Nov. 22 contests. Then will come UCL's vs. Southern California on Nov. 24, the big Army-Navy battle on Dec. 1, and Miami vs. Pittsburgh on Dec. 8.

This is the schedule of pro games involving the Cleveland Browns (all times Central Standard):

Friday, Sept. 21, Bears at Chicago, 7:30 p. m. (exhibition).

Sunday, Sept. 30, Cardinals at Chicago, 12 noon.

Saturday, Oct. 6, Steelers at Pittsburgh, 6 p. m.

Sunday, Oct. 14, Giants at Cleveland, 1 p. m.

Sunday, Oct. 21, Redskins at Washington, 12 noon.

Sunday, Oct. 28, Steelers at Cleveland, 1 p. m.

Sunday, Nov. 4, Packers at Milwaukee, 1 p. m.

Sunday, Nov. 11, Colts at Cleveland, 1 p. m.

Sunday, Nov. 18, Eagles at Philadelphia, 1 p. m.

Sunday, Nov. 25, Redskins at Cleveland, 1 p. m.

Sunday, Dec. 2, Eagles at Cleveland, 1 p. m.

Sunday, Dec. 9, Giants at New York, 1 p. m.

Sunday, Dec. 16, Cardinals at Cleveland, 1 p. m.

Dodgers, Braves All Even Following Win by Maglie; Cincinnati Rips Giants, 11-5

By United Press
All even! That's what the Dodgers and Braves were today after 138 games—except maybe Brooklyn has the edge because of that valiant old veteran, Sal Maglie, who comes right out and admits he told a lie.

The happy, perspiring Maglie let the lie out of the bag Tuesday night amid the tremendous jubilation that followed his 4-2 victory over the Milwaukee Braves. The triumph, Maglie's 10th since coming to the Dodgers from Cleveland last May 17th, boosted Brooklyn into a first place tie with Milwaukee—and well, the kidding, jubilant atmosphere was such that a guy could admit to a whopper.

"When I first came over here from Cleveland," Maglie said in between congratulatory handshakes, "I told Randy Jackson that all I wanted to do was win 10 games. But I was lying... now I want more."

In addition to scattering eight hits and striking out six batters, the 39-year old Maglie rapped Dodger nemesis Bob Buhl for a two-run single in the fourth to put the Brooks ahead for good.

First Off Buhl

Maglie was nipped for Eddie Matthews' 35th homer in the second inning and Joe Adcock's 36th in the ninth but both blows came with the bases empty. Gil Hodges homered for Brooklyn.

The victory, Brooklyn's first at the expense of Buhl this season after he had beaten the Dodgers seven times, put them back in first place for the first time since April 28.

Milwaukee and Brooklyn meet for the last time this year today with Lew Burdette opposing Don Newcombe.

Cincinnati ripped the Giants, 11-5, and now is only two games removed from first place. Ted Kuszewski, Ed Bailey and Frank Robinson all homered in the Red-leg triumph, credited to reliever Art Fowler, and those three homers gave Cincy a total of 201 for the season.

Robinson Ties Record

Robinson's homer was his 38th of the year and it tied the major league record for a rookie set by Wally Berger of the Boston Braves in 1930. Bailey's belt, a grand-slam wallop, was his 25th homer of the year and it made the Red-legs the first team in major league history with five players boasting 25 or more homers. Kuszewski has 35, Wally Post 29 and Gus Bell 25.

Homers by Ken Boyer and Bob Del Greco helped the Cardinals strengthen their grip on fourth place with a 5-3 victory over the Phillies.

Dale Long and Frank Thomas hit back-to-back homers in the eighth and Bob Clemente came through with a run-scoring single in the ninth to give the Pirates a 4-3 decision over the Cubs.

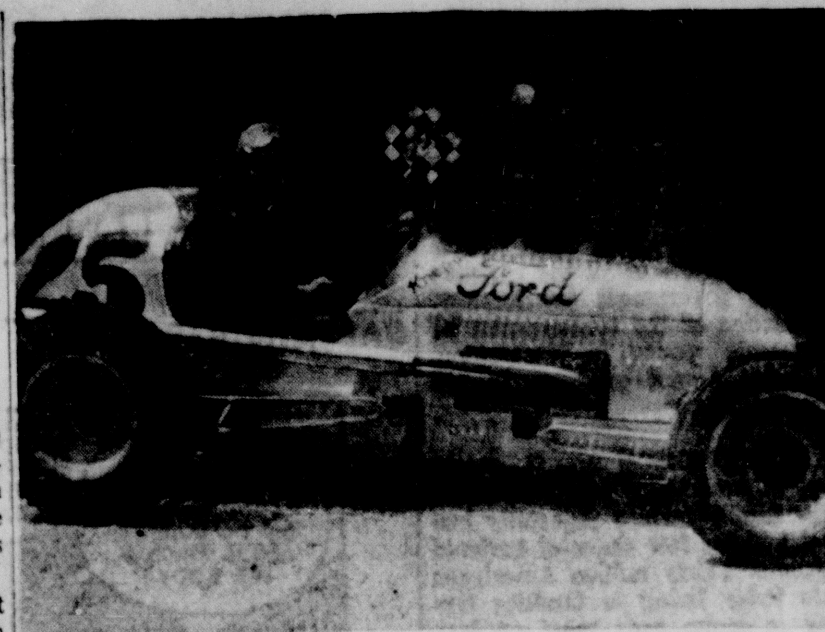

The Yankees remained 11 games in front in the American League race—if anyone can still call it that—by beating the last-place Athletics, 9-5. Hank Bauer hit his 24th and 25th homers while Yogi Berra drove in two runs with his 23rd homer.

Lemon Wins 200th

Sinkerballer Bob Lemon joined the ranks of the 200-game winners when he pitched and batted the Indians to a 3-1 triumph over the Orioles. Lemon limited the Orioles to six hits and hit a two-run homer off Ray Moore in the second inning. The victory was the 200th of Lemon's big league pitching career which began in 1946 and marked his 19th win of the season.

Willard Nixon and reliever Ivan Delock checked the White Sox on five hits in pitching the Red Sox to a 5-3 victory. Nixon was credited with the victory, featured by Ted Williams' 20th home run of the year.

Frank Lary pitched a two-hitter for his 17th victory as his Detroit teammates pounded out 14 hits in rolling to a 12-0 victory over Washington. Ray Boone homered for the Tigers.

ARNOLD KNEPPER, who won the sweepstakes at the Saline County Fair, has entered his Mercury engine-powered car in the Big Car Championship races at the fairgrounds here Saturday night, Sept. 15.

County Fair Winner Enters Auto Race Here

Arnold Knepper, Belleville, Illinois driver ace, has filed an entry with the officials of the Mississippi Valley Championship race to compete in the evening program of Championship Big Car Auto Racing at the fairgrounds in Harrisburg on Saturday night, Sept. 15.

Knepper won the lap speedway sweepstakes race here on Aug. 3. In addition he won the first heat and set a new track record of 25.45 seconds for the half mile distance. Since this time Knepper has blazed new track records and surprising wins over other midwestern tracks. His newest victories came at the Minnesota State Fair where he finished well up in the feature races in spite of the large field of Offenhauser cars entered. The entire racing fraternity is continually surprised by this youthful driver winning big purses with a small Mercury engine powered sprint car. Arnold and his brother, Walt Jr., seem to have what the other drivers and car owners term as a "combination." No doubt about it the combination of car and driver have been just about unbeatable at many tracks.

However, in the Championship race coming here Saturday night, Knepper will encounter top drivers seeking the last rich win of the season. Valley leader of the Mississippi Valley Circuit, Rocky Williams of Peoria and second place battler, Fred Lamback of Rock Island driving an Offenhauser will serve out the major share of front running competition.

Time trials are set for 7 p. m. Saturday with the first race at 8 p. m. A special program naming the season champion will follow the racing events.

URBANA, Ill. (AP)—Robert C. Zupke, 77-year-old retired University of Illinois football coach, today took out a license to marry his housekeeper, Leona P. Ray. Zupke and his bride-to-be returned to his Champaign apartment recently after spending the summer at his summer home at Muskegon, Mich.

Miss Ray has been Zupke's housekeeper for 23 years. Zupke suffered a stroke last spring and spent several days in a hospital.

He was not available for comment and the couple's wedding plans were not known.

Boardman Wins 8th Round TKO

BOSTON (AP)—Dead-panned Larry Boardman, his elation barely showing, had eyes only for lightweight champion Joe Brown today after his eighth round TKO victory over Jimmy Carter, a three-time winner of the lightweight crown.

Boardman, with a baffling assortment of head and body shots, rushed out in the eighth to smash Carter to the canvas three times. The fight was halted at 1:35 of the eighth round.

★ EDSON IN WASHINGTON ★

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

Ike, Adlai See Eye-to-Eye
On Looking Toward Future

SAN FRANCISCO — (NEA) — Acceptance speeches of Presidential Candidates Dwight D. Eisenhower and Adlai E. Stevenson ought to be read together. Both speeches take good long looks at the future. The country is lucky, as it was in 1952, to have two such candidates of high ideals.

No one can doubt that Stevenson and Eisenhower really want peace, progress and prosperity, which was a Democratic slogan in 1920, as well as the GOP slogan of 1956.

Stevenson said: "I for one am ready to acknowledge the sincerity of the Republican President's desire for peace and happiness for all." But on other points Stevenson was critical of Eisenhower, personally.

Declaring that, "I do not propose to make political capital out of the President's illness," Stevenson attacked "the conduct of the President's office and of the administration he heads as very much of an issue" in this campaign. President Eisenhower's speech didn't even mention the existence of his opponent.

EACH CANDIDATE pointed to his party's glorious past. But it is to the future of America that they turn with greatest enthusiasm. The two candidates' pictures of America today differ.

Pointing to the long-range objectives of his administration, as contrasted with short-term measures of expediency, Eisenhower listed these major accomplishments: Help for the farmer through the soil bank plan. Achievement of labor peace without government interference. Reduction of the concentration of economic power in Washington. A new 14-point program to aid small business.

AS STEVENSON sees it, everyone in America is not prosperous. The family farmer especially has not had his fair share of national income. Thirty million Americans are today living in families trying to make ends meet on less than $2,000 a year. The small businessman, teacher, white collar worker and retired citizen are in serious trouble. In this government of big men—big financially—no one speaks for the little man, he says.

"The Republican party's record," says Eisenhower, "has brought about more genuine progress toward equal justice and opportunity in the last three years than was achieved in all the previous 20 years put together."

"I will have to confess that the Republican administration has performed a minor miracle," says Stevenson. "After 20 years of incessant damnation of the New Deal, they have not only not repeated it, they have swallowed it."

Appraisals of the international situation by the two candidates also differ.

"OUR COUNTRY HAS never before in peacetime been so well prepared militarily," says Eisenhower. He lists these major requirements for achieving peace: Maintenance of our own national security. Attainment of collective security not in military strength alone but in political and economic help as well. Unceasing effort towards disarmament. Promotion of the administration's Atoms for Peace plan. Bridging of the chasm that now separates the free world from the peoples under communism.

"We are losing our military advantage," says Stevenson. "Our prestige has never been lower. We are losing the cold war." He lists these requirements to change course: We must strengthen the political and economic fabric of our alliances. We must protect the new nations in the exercise of their full independence. We must help other peoples out of Communist or colonial servitude along the hard road to freedom.

SIU Outfits Boat
For Classroom Use

CARBONDALE, Ill. (AP) — Southern Illinois University has outfitted a 42-foot government surplus patrol boat for classroom use.

Officials said the vessel will be used on the Mississippi and Ohio Rivers for courses in geography, botany, zoology and other subjects.

The university plans to offer short river trips as part of regular class schedules.

Obtained at no cost except $1,400 for refitting and overhaul, the boat will be moored at Chester, Ill., 38 miles from the campus.

More farm workers are killed by accident than in any other major occupation — 3,700 last year. Another 310,000 farm workers suffered disabling injuries.

An Important Story

Large Family Good
Training for Life

PHILADELPHIA — (AP) — The large family has many desirable qualities, and there is evidence that families are becoming bigger, in spite of modern housing conditions, scientists at the University of Pennsylvania report.

Sociologist James H. S. Bossard of the university's William T. Carter Foundation said members of large families are better matrimonial risks, are better adjusted to community life and can better adjust to changes in status, role, responsibilities and circumstances.

He said that today's children grow up in small families, but later go to large schools, work in large factories and join a large Navy or Army. A large family is excellent training for living in this "large" world, he added.

An important factor of the old-time family is conformity, Bossard said. Cooperation is more important than individualism, and there is a united family protest against the one who gets out of line. He said that families that do things together stay together. They can be poor families or rich ones, with crises or "elated with success." Their common possession is a deep-seated spiritual value — that family happiness is desirable and worthy to be achieved.

New Staley "Enzymated" PIG KISSES

WITH PEPSIN

Helps 3-Day-Old Pigs Digest Feed Like 4-Week-Olds

SAVES A FEEDING STEP IN SPEEDING EARLY GAINS!

Normally, baby pigs do not develop the necessary enzymes to digest "Starter" feed until they are about 4 full weeks of age. This new feed provides both the enzymes and the nutrition to push pigs through the critical first 4 weeks of their life.

HELPS FEED "DIGEST ITSELF"!

Now, with an improved idea, Staley has found a way to include the needed enzymes with Enzymated Pig Kisses. This makes Pig Kisses equal to or better, than sow's milk and to expensive milk-based pre-starters. Pig Kisses cost much less than the high priced, milk-based pre-starters.

"TREATMENT" LEVEL OF ANTIBIOTICS

ENZYMATED Pig Kisses are sugar-coated; high in taste appeal and in growth elements. They carry an actual "treatment" level amount of antibiotics; they're heavily fortified with essential vitamins and minerals. Thanks to the added enzymes, the pigs can utilize all these growth elements better than ever.

PIGS GET JET-PROPELLED START

Eating new ENZYMATED Staley Pig Kisses, little pigs can gain as much as 5 to 10 pounds more in their first three weeks of life, than they would on the usual sow's milk and starter feeds. They can be weaned any time after the third week. You save one step in the usual "pre-starter, starter and grower" routine, for ENZYMATED Pig Kisses are both pre-starter and starter in one, and it takes only 10 lbs. of new Pig Kisses per pig!

PUTS MORE PROFITS IN FALL PIGS

And, with the high-speed start this ENZYMATED feed gives, you may find you can save from four to seven weeks in getting those hogs to market. Save feed cost; be able to time your sale for the most advantageous markets.

Your Choice: Two Flexible Proved Programs
for Your Grain Supply, Your Feeding Set-up

staley Professional Program

This program can, of course, be used by any feeder and reward you with a maximum of gains in the shortest time. It is especially designed for the big-herd mass-producer of pork, who has to turn his crop and his money fast, and relies principally on hogs for income.

Step 1: Make Pig Kisses available in a creep from the third day on. Feed the sow Pig Mama and grain until pigs are weaned. Pigs may be weaned any time after 3rd week. Continue Pig Kisses until 10 pounds per pig has been consumed regardless of when they are weaned.

Step 2: When pigs have consumed 10 lbs. of Pig Kisses per head (usually by end of fourth week), switch to Professional Pig Grower Pellets (no grain) and continue until 8 weeks old. This is a 16% protein feed with high levels of antibiotics, vitamins and minerals—a "gain-forcing" feed. Takes 60 lbs. per pig.

Step 3: When pigs weigh about 65 lbs., usually in the 8th week, switch pigs to a full feed of Pro-Lass and grain. Follow this program to market weight and finish. Under normal conditions, pigs can weigh 200 lbs. in as little as 4 to 4½ months.

staley Pig Mama Program

This is a highly effective program, but not as fast as the Professional program, designed principally for the farmer to whom hogs are only a part of a general farming set-up, and who is willing to trade speed for simplicity.

Step 1: First eight weeks. After farrowing, feed Pig Mama and grain 50-50 to sow and litter. Pigs will learn to eat Pig Mama and grain with the mother. Wean pigs at eight weeks of age.

Step 2: Continue Pig Mama and grain to pigs until they weigh 60-70 lbs.

Step 3: After pigs reach 60-70 lbs., switch to Pro-Lass and grain and continue to market weight and finish. Under normal conditions, pigs can weigh 200 lbs. in 5 to 6 months.
